MARRIAGES THAT FAILED.

MANY MEN AND WOMEN SEEK RE-LIEF FROM GALLING BONDS.

Wives Who Charge Their "Better Halves" With Unseemly Conduct -Husbands Who Find No Peace at Home.

Mrs. Inez Musser yesterday filed in the circuit court an amended petition for divorce from her husband, George Musser, and it all the allegations she sets out are true it is probable that she will get, among other things, a decree, the restoration of her maiden name, alimony and the cus-tedy of their one child, Mildred Musser, aged 3 years. The couple were married in 183 and lived together three years, During the period he accused her, she says of divers and sundry sins, beat her, threatened her life, choked her and swore at Casey, who owns a one-third interest in certain patents on the Hale swinging harcertain patents on the Hale swinging harmess. She asks $2,000 and an accounting. According to the petition, Chief Hale bought letters of patent on horse collars and harness secured by Carl Rohl, of Lockport, N. Y., and conveyed a one-third interest in them to the plaintiff in consideration of $1,000 on January 19, 1885.

An agreement was entered into by Chief Hale and Mrs. Casey whereby Hale was to collect all royalties and henefits of the patents, and deduct two-thirds of the sum and 29 per cent of the plaintiff s share until the $1,000 obligation had been discharged, after which she was to receive one-third of the reyalties. She says Hale paid her, all told $50.49 as her share. In her suit against the chief, Mrs. Casey says he has all the books, memorandum, etc., connected with the business, and that she is compelled to rely upon his statements as to her share of the proceeds. Continuing, she uses this language: "The plaintiff is informed, and verily believes, that the defendant has not furnished the true statements and reports of all the royalties which have come into his hands, and that he has withheld large sums of money which were due her for the period prior to November 1, 1885."

She prays the court that Chief Hale he required to furnish a full and complete statement of the business during the period prior to January 19, 1885.

Dr. H. D. Jerowitz were called, but could do nothing and Birnbaum died without regaining consciousness.

Birnbaum was an old soldier and a member of the A. O. U. W. and Knights of Honor. He was at one time owner of several mines in New Mexico and quite wealthy. He met with reverses, however, and a year ago brought his family to Kansas City. It consists of a wife, two daughters and a son. One daughter, Mrs. A. E. Jennings, lives in Atchison, Kas. Birnbaum was a sufferer from kidney trouble for years.

Birnbaum's suicide is the third that has taken place in the vicinity of Seventeenth and Campbell streets in a week. A block south lived Gus Rau, the baker boy, who killed himself last Tuesday because he could not obtain work at more than 44 per week. At Seventeenth and Cherry streets Friday night Julius G. Kneule shot himself while in a lit of temporary insanity. All the suicides resorted to the use of firearms. Acrost the street from where Birnbaum shot himself is the greery store of Emma Schumacher, who was shot and killed last Wednesday night by footpads. Birnbaum had been for a year one of her customers. His funeral will take place to-morrow at 10 a. m.
